STARLINES REUNION RESHAPED MY THINKING ABOUT ALIEN LIFE AND CONTACT

by Jane Coleman

The English-language version of Starlines Reunion (SLR) debuted July 8-14, 2017, at TMI. Franceen_King and Andrea Berger had presented the program in Japan earlier in the summer. I was pleased to be able to attend, and it was an interesting week, indeed. I think Franceen and Andrea hit a home run out of the ballpark. SLR is essentially Starlines III, and Starlines II is a prerequisite.

SLR was advertised as a contact (ET) program. All of us hoped that a spacecraft would drop down by the crystal and give us a quick ride, but that didn't happen. (Yet. Maybe in a future program.)

We all had tons of contact during our exercises. Several folks have interesting shadows on their infrared camera footage. There were a bazillion orbs in our photos. And two folks spotted a good-sized spacecraft doing a flyover Wednesday night while we were out star watching. One saw the front of the craft, another saw the rear, and then it cloaked. (Both folks are very credible witnesses.) I was off taking a bio break, so I missed it—bad timing!

The program was in standard TMI format. We had five exercises per day (predominately in Focus 42 and 49) with lots of informational talks and videos. We took a field trip to Luray Caverns to really experience Earth Core energy. After dark, we were outside in zero gravity chairs, listening to Hemi-Sync and star watching.

The program helped me reshape my thinking about alien life and contact. I sorted through my prior beliefs and began to restructure my assumptions. What I've come to believe -

- Human life is not original to this planet. We may share genetic material with other species here, but these human bodies are hybrids, grown to allow beings to experience the earth life system. This is a common practice throughout the universe.
- The word “alien” is an inaccurate term, given that we are all aliens. Gaia is hosting us here for 3-D expression. Since we are also ETs, my relationship to other ETs shifts to encompass that newly realized relationship.
- Many of the ETs I am now having contact with—both physically and nonphysically—might also be mentors and guides. I have many ETs in my I-There cluster. Some may even be from the future, who have slipped through time to help us with our next steps as a global community and the global rise of consciousness.

As I take my thoughts about ETs out of the Hollywood and urban legend context, I'm letting my discernment help me choose a new path. I've always enjoyed sci-fi stories of meeting new civilizations and cooperating with them. I have even invited ETs to use the forest behind a previous home as a rest and refuel stop. And they did. Duncan, the Scottie, told me several times that someone was outside the back fence, and his bark indicated that they were friends, not interlopers. Early, when I used to see my guides as physical beings, I saw the face of an ET. I trust that whatever and whoever guards and guides my life will continue to ensure my highest good.

So it was a very good program. The week helped me shine the light on things that go bump in the dark, changing fears into Knowns. And it helped me become more aware of the sources of influence in my life. And that, folks, was well worth the price of admission.
